CHURCH CHIMES.

-Rev. Dr. John Worrall will preach at the First Presbyterian church, Sun day, morning and evening. -Mr. R. B. Hutchcraft united with the Christian church, at the Wednesday night prayer meeting and was baptized.

—At the Christian church, in this city, Sunday morning, Elder Carey Morgan will preach a Christmas sermon, and that night his subject will be "Is the world growing better or worse?"

Rev. Mr. Kirkwood, of the Assembly Presbyterian church, of Lexington, accompanied by his splendid choir, came from that city on Wednesday evening, and held a most interesting Christmas service at the First Presbyterian church in this city. The music was of a very high order, and Mr. Kirkwood's sermon was impressive and especially appropriate to the occasion.

—An exception to the rule in the Roman Catholic church forbidding all members to eat meat on Fridays will be made this year on Christmas, which will occur on the sixth day of the week. By a special dispensation of Pope Pius X, on New Year's day, also on Friday, the rule of abstinence from meat will not bind. On two Fridays in succession, therefore, meat may be eaten. Christmas eve. is always a fast day, and no meat of any kind or tempting dishes were permitted Catholics on Thursday.

AT USEMENTS.

From present indications the Hiawatha Minstrels will have a full house Christmas night at the Grand Opera House, and those desiring to see this very creditable performance will do well to secure their seats as early as possible. A special rate has been obtained over the Interurban in order to give Lexington people another chance to see the Minstrels who made such a hit in that city, and a great many of them have expressed their intention of taking advantage of this special rate, so there will doubtless be a number of Lexington people on hand that night Prices-75, 50, 35 and 25c.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you know that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefitted and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists.—W. T. Brooks.

Riley Grannan a Back Number.

Riley Grannan, the famous plunger, and an ex-Parisian, has come to Paris to spend the Christmas and New Year's holidays with his mother. In the heyday of his prosperity, Grannan bought his parents their present home, but this is the first time in ten years he has spent his holidays in Kentucky.

He came up from New Orleans, where he has been booking, and will return to the Crescent City after the New Year.

Riley complains of feeling none too well and says his health became impaired after enduring a winter or two in London. The climate in cold weather did not agree with him in England's great metropolis, and he says he has never been a well man since his return from across the pond.

Grannan does not seek notoriety, saying that he is only a back number now; only a blockman and doing little in the betting line. He will be heard from, however, in the spring.

Technical Education.

Dr. Louis Duncan declares in a magazine article that in this country technical education is too technical. "There is too much instruction," he says. "We should not attempt to make mental storehouses of men, but mental factories. The ability of a man to work out are brought to the gallery, where the any specific problem depends upon his being able to make a mental plot of the problem and keep it constantly before him. This requires an imagination that has been developed and not suppressed."

cialty of Taking Pictures of Floral Offerings at Funerals.

A Swedish photographer has an unusual business at a place in North Clark street, near the entrance to the Lutheran and Graceland cemeteries, says the Chicago Tribune. This man makes a living by picturing the flowers that are left on newly-made graves. No sooner has the funeral cortege moved away than he appears and sets up a great camera which seems to have been made for this particular purpose. When the grave has been filled up the flowers are banked on the mound, and an excellent negative is made of the showing.

It is claimed that this practice is growing. Mourners like to have something to show the floral offerings that were made at the offtaking of a member of the family. Sometimes the order is made while the family is yet at the grave, but on most occasions the order is given by some member of the family in advance of the funeral, or by the undertaker.

The services of the man are frequently sought at the house where the remains lie and where the flowers are banked up around the casket.

Other pictures are made of the flowers as they are loaded into a carriage and are being hauled to the cemetery, and still other floral offerings collection is placed on a table and photographed.

All classes of people want to have funeral flowers photographed. The pictures cost from seven to ten dollars going to gain several minutes. a dozen, and they get a full dozen sometimes two.

Wealthy Men Buy Up Inferior Coal Lands in Pennsylvania-Take Long Look Ahead.

Purchasing for posterity is the latest commercial development of these strenuous competitive times.

Scores of men who think they have the gift of foresight are going through the western part of Pennsylvania buying up all the undeveloped coal land that they can run across. The veins are generally small, and the grade of coal inferior, and the buyers know this, but they not infrequently pay as much as $30 or $40 an acre for the coal rights.

"We are not such fools as some people think we are," said one of them. 'All the good coal veins are being worked now to their utmost limit, and the demand is growing larger all the be the result? Fifty-maybe a hunferior veins will have to be opened.

After this system had been worked out proclaimed herself 32. and approved by the United States government officials, it was decided to put it into operation on November 18, which was Sunday, and on the same day the railroads of the country put into effect new winter schedules. Plans for inauguration of the new system of time caused much excitement everywhere, as it have to be changed, and that many people were going to lose several minutes out of their lives, while many more were

In Baltimore the proposed change caused much interest, as local time here was six minutes and 28 seconds faster than the seventy-fifth meridian time, and all clocks and watches had to be set back that much. Lieut. Commander Thomas Perry, United States navy, who had figured out Baltimore time, found that the Washington monument here was situated at longitude 76 degrees 36 minutes and 59 seconds west of Greenwich, England, where the calculation of the world's longitude begins, and that sun time here was five hours six minutes and 28 seconds behind Greenwich time. With the corrections under the present system, Baltimore time is exactly five hours slower than Greenwich time.

It was arranged for the convenience of Baltimoreans that the new official time should be struck off at noon by "Big Sam," the bell in the city hall tower, and should also be sent out over the fire alarm telegraph and struck off by the bells on the engine houses throughout the city. As usual, the city hall clock was out of order, and "Big Sam" refused to work, so Mr. A. Lehman, to whom had been delegated the job, used a sledge hammer to make "Big Sam" toll the new time. He depended upon his watch, and started to work five seconds too soon. Chief Charles J. McAleese received the Then our posterity will be right in accurate time by telegraph from Washington, and sent out over the fire alarm telegraph, and the bells all over the city notified the people that it was time to jump their watches and clocks six minand surely to our grandchildren later, Sunday afternoon, and went into effect paint on carriages and corroded plumbin business houses the next day. For a few days the use of the new time created some confusion, a few peopue refusing to adopt it, but finally it came into general use, and in the years since Baltimoreans have entirely forgotten the day that was six minutes and nev.-Alcott 28 seconds short of 24 hours. ### THE PARIS CAB HORSE.

After Three Years' Service in the City the Animal Is Thoroughly Worn Out.

About 45,000 horses pull the cabs of Paris. The average life is a little less than three years. They come up from the country-three-year-olds-from the meadows of Calvados and the fields of Normandy, from Limousin and Finisterre and the Gironde. Chained and strapped into the thills of breakers' carts they are broken to city sights and sounds-to the horrible steamtram, with its discordant clamor; to When darning stockings, run a thread now has his ancestry all traced out, the electric tram, that leaves behind; it a trail of electric sparks; to passing regiments and processions and, notably, to the policeman with the white wand, says a writer in Outing. Corean Farmers.

Coreans cultivate their fields largely with spades. One of these implements has a handle about eight feet long. The wooden bowl is tipped with iron and has two straw ropes fastened to it. The man manipulating the handle pushes the spade into the ground. Then those holding the ropes throw an insignificantly small amount of earth a distance of about two feet. In the Corean fields one may often see nine men thus employed on one spade.

Millionaires Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed B. C. FULTON, W. D. HAMILTON and millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaires unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-years. BRITISH PISTOL LAW.

Greater Pains Taken to Reduce the Facilities of Murder Than in This Country.

show a very small proportion of murders as compared with the statistics of the United States. The reasons for this are to be found, not merely in the stricter enforcement of law and in the heavier penalties inflicted, but also in the pains that are taken to reduce, so to speak, the facilities for murder, says the Chicago Record-Herald. A man with a pistol in his pocket may kill another when he would not commit the crime if he had to go to a store to purchase the weapon. A man who is able to buy a pistol at any time that he has the price may kill another when he would not do it if the sale was under close restrictions. Such restrictions are imposed by a new law passed at the last session of parliament, which British magistrates are now busily engaged in enforcing.

The law provides in the first place that every dealer selling or letting a pistol must enter the transaction in a record book that will always be open to the inspection of the police. In addition it prohibits the sale or letting a gun or game license, unless they are householders who intend to keep the pistols in their own homes, or unless they wish the pistols for use abroad. Furthermore, no one under the age of permitted to buy, hire, use or carry a pistol under any circumstances. For violations of the law the penalties intoxicated or not of sound mind, the ceeding three months. Good results are expected from this law, especially as efforts are being made to acquaint the entire population with its terms, chance to plead ignorance in excuse of their acts.

ERRORS IN ILLUSTRATIONS.

Newspaper Work Almost Unavoidable.

"Perfection of detail," said the cartoonist, according to the Philadelphia Record, "is very rare in the making of pictures, whether they be painted on 116 E. MAIN ST., - LEXINGTON, KY. canvas by the great masters or drawn in line by the men who illustrate the daily newspapers. It is the general effect that tells. There are few newspaper Great Britain's criminal statistics pictures—and I don't exclude my own in which you can't pick some flaw from the standpoint of realism. In the hurried effort of the newspaper artist who counts the minutes by the clock, there may be some excuse for this, but when we see a man carving a turkey left-handed on the cover of a magazine we must agree that the artist has either been careless or else has employed a left-handed model to pose for him, and the latter solution is scarcely probable. A fisherman landing a trout on a light rod with never a finger on the reel is quite a common mistake among magazine illustrations, and in the matter of costumes of various periods the illustrators are woefully lacking in information.

"To illustrate how apt we are to Fine Wines, Whiskies, Cigars and make mistakes," continued the cartoonist, "several years ago I drew a figure representing Cuba, emaciated, starving, a thing of skin and bones. The figure was half naked, and I tried to bring out all the horrible detailthe shrunken limbs, the gaunt face, the ribs protruding through the skin, and, above all, the hollow cavity where the stomach should have been. A friend of mine, a doctor, took me to task about it. 'Persons who are starving to death,' he said, 'may be abnormally emaciated in every other part of the body except the stomach. The abdomen in the advanced stages is expanded Notice to Stockholders with gases until it puffs up like a balloon, giving the victim a grotesque appearance.' The climbing season, from that point of view, was like the London season or the season at any of the watering places.

Concerning the accidents of the season it is, as has been said, a little difficult to benefit to small towns. Most of the generalize until the actual figures are presented; but one generalization is possible. The accidents to serious mountaineers, engaged upon serious expeditions, were relatively few, while the accidents which, being the direct result of who happened to live on or near the 1904. ignorance or carelessness, ought really to be called by some other name, were comparatively numerous.

Such an accident, for example, as happoned to Prof. Tyndall, when he started An Easily Constructed Device Which an avalanche on the Piz Morteratsch, or to Mr. Gossett, when he did the same thing on the Haut de Cry, would be most unlikely to occur to any modern party with a guide skilled in snow craft; the next, cannot fail to diminish the percentage of catastrophes among mountaineers who know their business.

The danger for them begins when, out of bravado, they knowingly take unwarrantable risks, after the fashion of the late A. F. Mummery, or the party that fell from the Dent Blanche, in such tragic circumstances, a few seasons ago.

The accidents of the other class, howeva are more likely to increase than to diminish in number as the years go on, if only because the increasing facilities of continental travel bring so many en- low.
